

PRiSM Annual Meeting Trainee Travel Grant

The Pediatric Research in Sports Medicine (PRiSM) Society seeks to establish an opportunity for researchers and clinicians from varied backgrounds to convene in an interdisciplinary fashion during the PRiSM Annual Meeting. During this conference, attendees present, discuss, and develop collaborations on research and education initiatives related to pediatric sports medicine.

The purpose of this Trainee Travel Grant is to allow students/trainees the opportunity to present their work at our annual meeting and to increase the diversity of our membership and meeting attendees through consideration of the following factors including, but not limited to: educational background, specialty, geographic location, race/ethnicity, gender/sex, sexual orientation, and financial need.

These awards are made possible through a NIH R13 grant that aims to foster an environment of collaboration among a diverse set of professionals and trainees involved in pediatric sports medicine research.

Eligibility Requirements

PRiSM seeks applicants who are PRiSM student/trainee members or are applicants for membership to apply for this Travel Grant. You will need to be a member or a member applicant before you are able to access the award application.

Trainee Travel Grant Content

- Complimentary registration to the annual meeting
- Reimbursement of up to $1,000 for travel and lodging expenses
